RUSSIAN ARMY IN LIAO YANG

NOW AWAITING ADVANCES OF JAPANESE

Kuropatkin Abandons All Outer Defenses and Prepares for a General Attack—Russians Lose Heavily in Assaults.

Liao Yang, Aug. 29.—The Russian army has effected an entrance with transportation artillery in Liao Yang and is now in position awaiting advances of Japanese. The progress of the latter has been rapid and determined, sparing of no sacrifice. In the attack on Shalindzy position one Japanese battalion lost all its officers. General Rontkovsky was among killed. The Japanese artillery resumed the battle this morning, the point of pressure being the Russian south front.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—Kuropatkin since yesterday morning has been drawing in all his force from his eastern and southern fronts, toward Liao Yang. An Ping, Tseow, Lianahshan and Anshan-shan, constituting the main positions of the outer defense line of Liao Yang, have been abandoned. The heaviest fighting occurred on the extreme left, where Japanese advanced to assault again and again with bayonets. The attacks were delivered with fanatical bravery. The Russians lost a large proportion of officers, ten guns and from fifteen hundred to two thousand men.

The Russians have been generally successful in beating off the assaults along the long line and declare the order to retire came as a surprise just when they were expecting an order for a general advance. This is considered to be proof Kuropatkin, finding his main positions menaced on the flank and anticipating difficulties in withdrawing owing to the muddy condition of the roads, considered retreat imperative.

Retreat from the east front was greatly impeded by conversion of the Lan river into a mountain torrent and this probably also accounts for the failure of Japs to follow up the retreating Russians.

The strength of the enveloping Japanese armies may be judged from the fact Oku alone, who is coming up from the south, is officially reported to have 75,000 men. Whether Kuropatkin intends to accept battle at Liao Yang may not be known positively for several days, but belief prevails here he will withdraw northward.

UNCERTAINTY PREVAILS.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—Even late to night the greatest uncertainty prevails regarding the actual situation at Liao Yang. There is intense anxiety for definite news from the front, but even the authorities are frankly ignorant as to whether or not the long expected decisive action will be fought at Liao Yang or further north. It is possible a great battle is now proceeding and there are many indications that such is the case. If this is so the fate of this year's campaign may be settled within forty-eight hours. At the same time opinion is almost equally divided, many believing Kuropatkin will not make a determined stand.

It is certain the armies are now in the closest touch. The Japanese are advancing along both roads converging on Liao Yang, but the crucial question, whether it is the main Russian army that is concentrated there to receive them or merely a strong screen, has not been answered up to this date.

RUSSIA MAY DECLINE

Proposal of U. S. Looking to Unrestricted Recognition of American Passports.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—While Russia has not yet rejected the proposal of the United States government for reopening of negotiations looking to the unrestricted recognition of American passports, it is practically certain she will decline, as she has heretofore done, to enter into the proposition on the ground it involves a question of purely domestic policy and that compliance with the wishes of the United States would entail a complete change in the laws of the empire in so far as they affect Japs. Upon actual intervention of the emperor himself would seem to rest the only possible hope of a Russian agreement even to enter into negotiations on the subject with the United States.

PACKERS SATISFIED

Refuse Request of Strikers to Consider Peace Negotiations

Chicago, Aug. 29.—An application was made to the packers by stock yards strikers to day for a conference, the purpose being to bring about peace. The conference was refused by the packers. The reason given was no good could come from such a conference.

Two hundred employees, mostly girls, of the meat department of the American Can company struck to day because the company was furnishing cans to packing houses.

Teamsters who are on sympathetic strike with packing house employees held a turbulent meeting to night. Discussion was on proposition to return to work and while no vote was taken the sentiment strongly opposed the proposition.

GARRISON SUFFERS

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—It is reported from a reliable source St. Petersburg telegraphs the emperor that the garrison at Port Arthur has already suffered severely, intimating that it is hardly possible to hold out for more than a month or six weeks.

Four more regiments will be raised in Caucasus. The first contingent of the first army corps has arrived at Harbin. This corps is destined for Vladivostok, but upon urgent request of Kuropatkin it will be diverted to Mukden.

An official dispatch from Liao Yang reporting continued Japanese advances on Sunday confirms the report that General Rontkovsky was killed and adds Colonel von Raaben was also killed. The total Russian losses on Sunday are not known, but 400 wounded have passed through the first station. Losses of Japanese are considerable.

Chefoo, Aug. 29.—Severe fighting was resumed at Port Arthur on Aug. 27, according to Chinese who left there the evening of the 27th. Between Aug. 23 and 24 there was some fighting, but it was less severe than that of the 27th.

RUSSIAN DISARM

Shanghai, Aug. 29.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoy has been disarmed and the cruiser Askold will disarm in tomorrow.

Liao Yang, Aug. 29.—Japanese have transferred their activity to the Russian eastern and southern fronts. A rear guard battle is proceeding. The weather has improved and roads are drying.

London, Aug. 29.—It is stated on good authority the British cruisers sent to search for the Russian volunteer fleet cruisers Smolensk and St. Petersburg have overhauled at least one of these vessels. The utmost reticence is maintained at the admiralty.

MAKES SPEECH IN VERMONT

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY SENATOR FAIRBANKS

Republican Candidate for Vice President Welcomed to Birth Place of His Father—Speaks of Policies of Two Parties.

White River Junction, Vt., Aug. 29.—The Republican candidate for vice president, Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, delivered his first formal speech of the campaign here this afternoon. Large numbers of people from all parts of Windsor county and from western New Hampshire were present. The demonstration was arranged particularly as a welcome to the people of Windsor county to the Indiana senator, whose father was born within its limits.

After paying a tribute to the citizens of Vermont and New Hampshire for their loyalty and efficient service in every emergency, Fairbanks entered upon an extended review of the policies of the Republican and Democratic parties during the past twelve years. He pointed out that under Republican administrations the country had enjoyed unprecedented prosperity, while four years in which the Democrats held the reins of government were years of arrested development, paucity and distress without parallel in American history. The senator argued that the Republican's firm attitude toward a protective tariff and the Democratic wavering policy on that issue was the reason for extreme conditions in the country's prosperity. Continuing, he said: "One of the uppermost questions of the present campaign which is of far-reaching moment is: Does the administration of President Roosevelt merit a vote of confidence? This question confronts us at the very threshold of debate. The president took up the duties of his office at a serious moment in the history of the republic. He assumed great responsibilities with due appreciation of their gravity and gave assurance to his countrymen that he would carry out the policies of his predecessor. The people were familiar with them. They were the policies of the Republican party. They had brought the country immeasurable prosperity and they naturally desired their continuance. He has since administered our national affairs with conspicuous ability. He has been an earnest student of the country's needs. He has been conscientious and untiring in the discharge of the great responsibilities. He has been inspired by but one purpose and that has been to do well the work committed to his hands. Judged by any test we may apply the administration of President Roosevelt has been eminently successful. The last three years have been years of exceptional commercial growth, domestic peace and expanding powers. As in 1892, the Democratic party now denounces protection as robbery of the many to enhance the few and pledges itself to overthrow the Dingley law through revision and reduction of tariff. What will be the result of such a policy? We will find a most conclusive answer in the four years of the last Democratic administration. Let the American people take the Democratic platform and record of the last Democratic administration in one hand and the Republican platform and record of the Republican administration during the last three years in the other and pronounce their potential judgment."

RETIREMENT OF HILL

Announcement of New York Democratic Leader the Topic of Discussion.

Broken at Providence R. I. Monday

New York, Aug. 29.—The decision of David B. Hill to retire from politics after the 1st of January was the topic of discussion in all political headquarters to day. His friends declared Hill would still be very much in evidence during the campaign.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The announcement by David B. Hill of his contemplated retirement Jan. 1 occasioned much interest in Esopus to day, but Judge Parker refused to comment upon it.

NEW YORK PRIMARIES.

New York, Aug. 29.—On the eve of the city primaries there is much uncertainty about the Republican nomination for governor of New York. Three men only are now talked about, Timothy L. Woodruff, Lieutenant Governor Higgins and Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university.

WISCONSIN AFFAIRS.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 29.—State Treasurer Kempf had arranged with a surety company to give additional bond before the time limit expires to morrow, but at the last moment the company refused to furnish the bond. There is talk of an injunction, but the governor claims he cannot be enjoined from performance of official duty and will to morrow demand the treasurer vacate the office.

Attorneys for Secretary of State Houser filed answer this evening in the suit brought against him by nominees of the anti-third term Republican state ticket to compel him to place their names in the Republican column on the official ballot and to restrain him from placing the names of the La Follette nominees in that column.

The answer denies the court's jurisdiction and all allegations upon which the suits rests. It also claims the Republican national committee had no right to pass upon the regularity of the state convention and that the old state committee should be allowed to pass upon questions at issue.

CONTESTS WILL BECLOSE.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Chairman Babcock of the congressional committee to day expressed the opinion the present is the closest congressional campaign he has experienced since 1898. Causes for this condition are various. He cited Nebraska, "where," he said, "there are six congressmen to fight for and where the Democrats have abandoned the national campaign. They have fused with Populists on legislative and congressional tickets, but not on presidential elections. Nearly all congressional districts in the state are close. We redeemed four of those districts four years ago, but they have been going one way or the other by very narrow margins, in some instances by 12, 15 and 20 votes. Now the congressional committee has to go in there without the usual support from the national committee."

RUSSIA MAY DECLINE

Proposal of U. S. Looking to Unrestricted Recognition of American Passports.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—While Russia has not yet rejected the proposal of the United States government for reopening of negotiations looking to the unrestricted recognition of American passports, it is practically certain she will decline, as she has heretofore done, to enter into the proposition on the ground it involves a question of purely domestic policy and that compliance with the wishes of the United States would entail a complete change in the laws of the empire in so far as they affect Japs. Upon actual intervention of the emperor himself would seem to rest the only possible hope of a Russian agreement even to enter into negotiations on the subject with the United States.

PACKERS SATISFIED

Refuse Request of Strikers to Consider Peace Negotiations

Chicago, Aug. 29.—An application was made to the packers by stock yards strikers to day for a conference, the purpose being to bring about peace. The conference was refused by the packers. The reason given was no good could come from such a conference.

Two hundred employees, mostly girls, of the meat department of the American Can company struck to day because the company was furnishing cans to packing houses.

Teamsters who are on sympathetic strike with packing house employees held a turbulent meeting to night. Discussion was on proposition to return to work and while no vote was taken the sentiment strongly opposed the proposition.

GARRISON SUFFERS

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—It is reported from a reliable source St. Petersburg telegraphs the emperor that the garrison at Port Arthur has already suffered severely, intimating that it is hardly possible to hold out for more than a month or six weeks.

Four more regiments will be raised in Caucasus. The first contingent of the first army corps has arrived at Harbin. This corps is destined for Vladivostok, but upon urgent request of Kuropatkin it will be diverted to Mukden.

An official dispatch from Liao Yang reporting continued Japanese advances on Sunday confirms the report that General Rontkovsky was killed and adds Colonel von Raaben was also killed. The total Russian losses on Sunday are not known, but 400 wounded have passed through the first station. Losses of Japanese are considerable.

Chefoo, Aug. 29.—Severe fighting was resumed at Port Arthur on Aug. 27, according to Chinese who left there the evening of the 27th. Between Aug. 23 and 24 there was some fighting, but it was less severe than that of the 27th.

RUSSIAN DISARM

Shanghai, Aug. 29.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoy has been disarmed and the cruiser Askold will disarm in tomorrow.

Liao Yang, Aug. 29.—Japanese have transferred their activity to the Russian eastern and southern fronts. A rear guard battle is proceeding. The weather has improved and roads are drying.

London, Aug. 29.—It is stated on good authority the British cruisers sent to search for the Russian volunteer fleet cruisers Smolensk and St. Petersburg have overhauled at least one of these vessels. The utmost reticence is maintained at the admiralty.

Shanghai, Aug. 29.—The German steam-

WAR REPORTS

Liao Yang, Aug. 29.—The Russian army has effected an entrance with transportation artillery in Liao Yang and is now in position awaiting advances of Japanese. The progress of the latter has been rapid and determined, sparing of no sacrifice. In the attack on Shalindzy position one Japanese battalion lost all its officers. General Rontkovsky was among killed. The Japanese artillery resumed the battle this morning, the point of pressure being the Russian south front.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—Kuropatkin since yesterday morning has been drawing in all his force from his eastern and southern fronts, toward Liao Yang. An Ping, Tseow, Lianahshan and Anshan-shan, constituting the main positions of the outer defense line of Liao Yang, have been abandoned. The heaviest fighting occurred on the extreme left, where Japanese advanced to assault again and again with bayonets. The attacks were delivered with fanatical bravery. The Russians lost a large proportion of officers, ten guns and from fifteen hundred to two thousand men.

The Russians have been generally successful in beating off the assaults along the long line and declare the order to retire came as a surprise just when they were expecting an order for a general advance. This is considered to be proof Kuropatkin, finding his main positions menaced on the flank and anticipating difficulties in withdrawing owing to the muddy condition of the roads, considered retreat imperative.

Retreat from the east front was greatly impeded by conversion of the Lan river into a mountain torrent and this probably also accounts for the failure of Japs to follow up the retreating Russians.

The strength of the enveloping Japanese armies may be judged from the fact Oku alone, who is coming up from the south, is officially reported to have 75,000 men. Whether Kuropatkin intends to accept battle at Liao Yang may not be known positively for several days, but belief prevails here he will withdraw northward.

UNCERTAINTY PREVAILS.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—Even late to night the greatest uncertainty prevails regarding the actual situation at Liao Yang. There is intense anxiety for definite news from the front, but even the authorities are frankly ignorant as to whether or not the long expected decisive action will be fought at Liao Yang or further north. It is possible a great battle is now proceeding and there are many indications that such is the case. If this is so the fate of this year's campaign may be settled within forty-eight hours. At the same time opinion is almost equally divided, many believing Kuropatkin will not make a determined stand.

It is certain the armies are now in the closest touch. The Japanese are advancing along both roads converging on Liao Yang, but the crucial question, whether it is the main Russian army that is concentrated there to receive them or merely a strong screen, has not been answered up to this date.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

President Kimball of C. P. & St. L. Expected Here to Day—Burlington Improvements—Work Will Soon Begin on Wabash Freight Depot.

President C. E. Kimball, of New York, and General Manager J. P. Ramsey, of the C. P. & St. L., are expected in the city to day in a special train. A meeting of the directors of the C. P. & St. L. was held in Springfield Monday. The significance of the visit of officials is not known, but it is said that the new superintendent of motive power, M. Douglas Stewart, may accompany them to this city.

B. F. Bond, of this city, is superintending the work of rebuilding the old J. & St. L. railroad for the Burlington between Litchfield and Centralia. The roadbed is being put in splendid shape and every improvement is being installed to make it a high class road to accommodate the traffic expected when the winter coal trade begins. The improvements were made necessary by the heavy engines and big coal trains which have been run since the Burlington took possession. Mr. Bond has four gravel trains and a steam shovel at work at the gravel pit near Keesport. Twenty miles of sixty-six pounds steel rails and 15,000 ties have been unloaded between Litchfield and Centralia. Eight extra gangs of twenty to forty men are at work on the improvements. When completed the entire distance between these cities will be gravel ballasted, with new ties and sixty-six pounds steel rails.

It appears that work on the new Wabash freight depot will begin soon. A boss carpenter of the road was in the city last week, and while here is said to have remarked that he would be back this week with a large force of men to begin work at once.

V. T. O'Donald, the genial claim agent of the Wabash at Decatur, was in the city for a short time Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Smith and Miss Ida Platt will resume their duties at the Wabash station the first of the month, after an extended vacation. They return much refreshed by their absence from the office and will be better prepared than ever to look after the wants of the traveling public.

E. R. Smyth, who has been acting as assistant agent at the Wabash station, will go on again as night man the first of the month. D. G. Byers, extra operator, who has been doing the night work here, will be transferred to Decatur.

W. A. Evans, who came here from Springfield, where he had the position of assistant agent, to act as agent at this point during the vacation of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, goes to St. Louis the first of the month as a passenger agent for the Wabash in the union station, a position made vacant by the promotion of W. S. Turnbull, who goes to Pittsburg, Sept. 1 as traveling passenger agent of the Wabash out of that city.

Sam Parks, traveling accountant of the Wabash, was in the city yesterday. George Holliday, passenger conductor of the C. P. & St. L., reported for work Monday, after a two weeks' vacation at Quiver Beach.

R. C. Fleming, passenger and ticket agent for the Wabash at Springfield, was in the city yesterday.

T. F. Harrington, passenger and ticket agent for the Wabash at St. Louis, was in the city on business yesterday.

The Chicago & Alton has announced that it will run the suburban trains to Nichols park on Labor day which were so popular during the summer. This time the road will have more time to prepare for the crowds, which will insure perfect service.

Alton Engineer Fitzgerald caught Hickman's run on trains 26 and 27 Monday.

E. Ryder, division superintendent; C. P. Bonis, trainmaster, and E. Sweeney, supervisor of the Alton, passed through the city Monday on 17. Mr. Ryder is attending to the work of W. S. Causey, engineer of maintenance of way, who was injured a week ago. He was reported Monday as improving slowly.

Fred Carriel, of this city, left Monday for Chicago to take up a position as fireman on the Northwestern. He completed the course in railroad engineering last fall at the University of Illinois and is thoroughly equipped for his work. Mr. Carriel starts as a fireman in order to learn all the practical details of the work.

A meeting of all the passenger representatives of the Burlington has been called by Passenger Traffic Manager P. S. Eustis in Chicago, Sept. 5 and 6.

Alton Engineer Pelton, with the 300, made a fast run Sunday on 86. The train was late out of Roodhouse and was delayed at Manchester, leaving there at 10:20. He was delayed at this city, San Jose and Tallula by picking up stock. The train pulled into Bloomington at 2:20 p. m. with twenty-four loads. Conductor Scott was in charge of the train.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A SPLENDID JOB

Ball & Taylor, who have completed the moving of the Elliott house from the property on West College avenue to the Hinton lot in West State street, have fully demonstrated their ability to handle contracts of a difficult character. When it was first known that the house was to be moved many predictions were made that it would never be successfully accomplished. The house was an unusually large one to begin with and built of the heaviest oak timbers, and was lined with brick so that in the handling of it the greatest skill was necessary.

Messrs. Ball & Taylor had to buy special timbers and tools before they were equipped for the undertaking, but after these arrived the work of moving was at once begun and considering the obstacles to be overcome, the work was accomplished in a very short time.

HAVE MADE IMPROVEMENTS

Auditorium of Congregational Church Redecorated and Illuminated—Interior Changes.

Improvements of a substantial nature have been in progress at the Congregational church during the past two months. Changes have been made in the interior arrangements and the main auditorium has been redecorated and relighted.

The ceiling is done in green and cream color with a shade of pink here and there. The side walls are in olive green and the dado above the baseboard is in a darker shade of green. An ornamental border is frescoed above the green dado, running around the four walls of the church. The massive brackets on the east and west sides of the auditorium are in cream color and on each side of the organ in the front of the church are handsome frescoed designs. Above each of the windows are frescoed borders and the ensemble effect is very artistic.

A complete change has been made in the lighting facilities. The chandelier has been done away with and in its place 118 incandescent lights have been placed in cluster, circular and oval shape. The cluster in the center of the ceiling has ten lights, the circle surrounding has twenty and the oval which surrounds both has sixty-four. In addition to the above there are clusters of three lights between each of the brackets.

The change in arrangements has all been made in the front of the church. The choir loft, which has been on the east side, has been placed directly back of the pulpit, which has been extended six feet. The choir loft will have a curtain rail with brass rods. There will be broad aisles on each side of the pulpit and the space will be occupied for Sunday school purposes.

A feature of the new lighting facilities is the easy manner in which the incandescent lights can be replaced. The replacement is all done from the attic and the lights are arranged so that they can be drawn up from the ceiling into the attic and new lights placed in the sockets, as occasion may require.

New pews have also been purchased, but these will not arrive until December, and in the meantime the old seats will be used. A new carpet will also be laid when the seats arrive.

The improvements were made under the direction of the prudential committee and the following special committee from the ladies of the church.

Prudential committee—B. W. Smith, chairman; George L. Merrill, L. S. Doane, Arthur Fairbank and Harry M. Capps.

Special committee—Mrs. B. W. Smith, Miss Maria Fairbank, Miss Frances Wood, Mrs. M. H. Havenhill and Mrs. L. S. Doane.

People think it is easy to "run" a newspaper. One week's experience would change the opinion of most people on this subject. Did you ever count the words in a column of ordinary newspaper print? Well, there are about a thousand words in a column. Suppose you sit down and write a thousand words upon some subject, and then another thousand and another until you have written eight or ten thousand. Try it, and see if it is right easy. Keep that quit up for a month, a year and see if it is easy. Then chase a single local item all over town, and after you have gotten the facts all right, condense them into a few lines—an hour's work that can be read in a few seconds. Do this for a dozen items that seem insignificant after they are printed, but which you know are important; then have the items criticised and inaccuracies pointed out to you when it is too late to correct them. Oh, yes it is easy to "run" a newspaper.

WATCH OUT FOR

THIS "GRAFTER."

A smooth talker is traveling over central Illinois purporting to be getting up a directory of the rural routes of the country. He gets from the merchants ads to help pay for the publication, promising them the support of the patrons in proportion to their help. Then he sells the directories to the mail order houses, who flood the country with their catalogues. This is a neat scheme to get the home merchants to pay for a list which is intended to benefit the mail order houses only, the natural enemies of the home merchants.

SENATORIAL COMMITTEE.

An adjourned meeting of the Republican senatorial committee of the Forty-fifth senatorial district was held in this city Monday afternoon. Those present were: H. W. Butler, chairman; S. B. Stewart, secretary; E. S. Robinson, proxy for O. G. Addelman; R. M. Sullivan, proxy for H. C. Garvey; John J. Newman and Fred Overstreet, of Sangamon county; Andrew Russell, John R. Robertson and James H. Dunsin, of Morgan county.

The object of the meeting was to fix a time for the hearing of contests over delegates. The date determined upon was the morning of Sept. 27, the day of the senatorial convention. Credentials have already been filed by the Yates and Hamlin factions and the purpose of hearing the contests is to determine the rightful delegates and make up a temporary roll call. Hon. A. C. Murray, of Springfield, present member of the legislature from this district, was also present at the meeting yesterday. The meeting was held in the office of City Clerk Stewart and the Sangamon county members went home on the afternoon train.

VIOLENT ATTACK OF DIARRHOEA CURED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY AND PERHAPS A LIFE SAVED.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a 25 cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all leading druggists."

HER SOCIETY LOVER

There were Captain Hackett, his wife, his daughter Elizabeth and the captain's mate, Tom Hadenway. People said Hackett was rich and his daughter would be an heiress. She had known Tom all her life, and there had been a time when she had believed that her father's wish might come to pass and Tom Hadenway become her husband, but with the elegant house in the fashionable square had arisen other ideas.

So during one of her father's longest voyages she permitted Melton Melton, who had by slow degrees become her beau ideal of manly perfection, to slip an engagement ring upon her slender finger and gave him permission to "ask papa" in the most approved fashion.

"Why didn't you ask me first?" said the captain. "That puppy! Lord love you! What do you women see in a fellow like that? They ain't men counting to my reckoning, only gals in wrong clothes! Him!"

"He adores me, papa," said Elizabeth, melting into tears, "and I should die if you were cruel. Do you consent, papa?"

"And how about Tom Hadenway?" asked the captain.

At this Lizzie curled her lip.

"Tom loves you better than his life," said the captain. "I've as much as given him to understand that I'll make no objections. As for this fellow, the only use you could make of him in the time of a storm would be to throw him overboard to lighten the ship, and, by the Lord Harry, his weight wouldn't make much difference. Think it over, Lizzie!"

But Lizzie was firm, and she was the captain's pet, and, though the old man gave his consent very reluctantly, still he gave it at last. And poor Tom Hadenway heard the news with a sad heart and sailed away to sea again with the captain.

This time the captain's voyage was but a short one. He returned quite unexpectedly one day with something unpleasant evidently upon his mind.

"Perhaps," thought Lizzie, "it was all about the engagement. Tom was such a favorite."

She was so sure of this that she felt nervous about mentioning the fact that Melton Melton was anxious that she should "name the day," but she did at last.

And, "the young fellow" arriving almost on the moment, the captain shook hands with him warmly enough, and they sat down together very amicably.

"Has Miss Lizzie—ah—ah—mentioned—ah—the object of—in fact, of this call—ah—ah?"

"I've heard that you are anxious to be spliced as soon as possible, my lad," said the captain, "and I've just told Lizzie that, as things stand today, I don't care how soon the affair is settled. I've got to leave home again, and I'd rather leave her under some one's care."

And the captain groaned.

"Ah, your health—ah, life is very—ah—uncertain!" said Melton Melton, with a thought of the reports of the captain's will at his heart.

"My health is perfect," said the captain, "and your Jack is as safe at sea as on land, for that matter. But you see, something has happened. I've been a precious fool. To tell the truth, plain enough for a marine to understand it, I've been speculating without knowing what I was about, and I've lost every penny I possessed. I'm as poor today as Job's turkey, and naturally I'm glad to see Lizzie settled."

Here the captain arose. "Settle the day between you," he said. "I'll leave you together." And he rushed out of the room.

Lizzie sank upon a sofa and burst into tears. Melton Melton, Esq., stood near her, with a peculiar expression upon his face.

"It's very distressing," he said. "Pon my word, I sympathize with you. I—ah—I couldn't trouble you to talk about that little matter at so distressing a moment. I am—I believe delicacy requires me to—ah—depart. Au revoir!"

And Melton Melton, Esq., vanished. In a week the captain and his daughter had gone back to the old second floor in the riverward street and there, with the painted furniture, the plaster parrots, the bunch of white coral and other belongings which had been the pride of the late Mrs. Hackett's heart, began a new life.

And thither, despite Lizzie's hopes, Melton Melton, Esq., did not come to offer his fortune to the impoverished heiress.

But thither once again Tom Hadenway came often. And Lizzie, separated from the throng whose glitter had blinded her, saw Tom Hadenway's worth and at last gave him her heart and hand, feeling that all her adventures had been blessings in disguise, having brought her to this happy end.

On the evening of the wedding the captain proposed a walk and led them to his handsome former dwelling.

"What does it mean?" cried Lizzie.

"What can it mean?" cried Tom.

"It means that I haven't been ruined, that's all," said the captain. "This is my house and has never belonged to any one else. And, what's more, Tom Hadenway, the Betsy Hackett belongs to me still, and there wasn't a word of truth in what I told you about being hired to navigate her out of compassion by the new owner."

"I reckoned that landlubber had an eye to Lizzie's fortune, and I've proved it true. But I gave the same sauce to both ganders, and you, Tom Hadenway, never guessed Lizzie was still an heiress. If she isn't thankful to me now, her eyes belie her."—Boston Globe.

RETIRE FROM POLITICS

David B. Hill Will Withdraw From Political Activity January First.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29.—David B. Hill, in conversation with friends here Sunday announced that he intends to retire from politics Jan. 1, and that, no matter what the result of the coming campaign may be in state or nation, he will relinquish the leadership of the Democratic party in New York.

He added that, in the event of Democratic success, he would not accept any position under the national or state Democratic administrations or again become a candidate for election to any office whatever.

Former Senator Hill made these statements on the eve of his birthday anniversary, which comes to day. He was born Aug. 29, 1843.

In partial explanation he said that he had intended to take such action a year ago, but was persuaded by some close personal friends to defer doing so until after the presidential election this year.

Having been engaged in active politics since his youth, and having served as city attorney, alderman and mayor of Elmira, N. Y., member of the legislature, lieutenant governor or seven years, and United States senator for six years, he feels that he has been sufficiently honored by his party and that he has rendered political service during a period of years sufficient to entitle him to be relieved from active political effort. He desires to devote more time to his personal affairs and professional duties than he has in the past.

Mr. Hill will continue his work in the present campaign, and to his friends said that he would always maintain his interest in Democratic success, but only as a private citizen. Mr. Hill will speak for the Democracy at the county fair to be held at Whitney's point, in this state, on Wednesday of this week, to be followed by Senator Depew the next day for the Republicans.

ONE WOMAN AMONG THE THOUSANDS.

We received a letter from Waycross, Ga., from a woman who had been troubled with female complaint for a long time, until she was reduced to almost a shadow. It affected her mind, she could not remember anything, would get confused and so nervous and irritable she could hardly sleep. She described her case as one similar to thousands of other women, and then ends the letter by saying she had gained 18 pounds last month and never felt better in her life, having no trace of her former troubles, slept well and ate her meals with a relish. She commenced the use of Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic six weeks before she wrote the letter from which we copy the above. This tonic is in tablet form, and should be taken right after meals. It turns the food you eat into strong, rich blood, feeding the nerves and curing disease by making healthy flesh. Sold by all druggists for 75c per box, or 3 boxes for $2. Pale, weak, thin people should use this Tonic. Sold by Lee P. Allcott.

SEWER PIPE COMPANY.

The big sewer pipe and stoneware plant of Whitehall is reported as getting started in good shape. About ninety cars of material will be shipped this month.

The big kilns are about completed. Messrs. William Spencer, Sr., and William Spencer, Jr., have finished the last stack and advised that all the kilns will be in use by the middle of September. The Spencers have worked about a year steady on this great manufacturing plant.

This clay manufacturing concern is probably without a rival in modern methods, machinery, etc. Some twenty-five or thirty stockholders in this company are residents of this city.

HAVANA AGAIN DEFEATED.

The Jacksonville base ball team went to Beardstown Sunday to again try conclusions with the Havana team, which came down on an excursion boat loaded with rooters. The Havana pitchers were easy for the Jacksonville team and the ball was knocked all over the diamond, the score being 12 to 2.

Schumm started the hitting in the first with a home run; after that the locals landed on the ball at will, battling Albertson, Herthing and Rippon out of the box in turn. Norris and Baker pitched for the Jacksonville team and both proved to be puzzles for the Havana team.

PITTSFIELD WON.

The Pittsfield colored team played the local colored team at West Side park Sunday before a small crowd, the former winning by a score of 13 to 11. The locals were in the lead until the latter part of the game, and the Pittsfield team got in six runs in the last inning.

LEPROSY CASE DISCOVERED

Dr. E. F. Baker Called to La Salle Where Genuine Case of Leprosy Has Been Reported to State Board of Health.

Dr. E. F. Baker was called to La Salle Monday evening on business connected with the state board of health. A case of what is believed to be genuine leprosy has been discovered by the local physicians and the state board of health has been called upon for an investigation. A specialist from Chicago will meet Dr. Baker at La Salle and a thorough investigation will be made. The case is what is known as "wet" leprosy. The name of the patient has not been learned, but he has been in the employ of the Illinois Zinc company, and moved from Peru to La Salle about a week ago. It will be quite a question as to what disposition can be made of the patient if it is found that he has a genuine case of leprosy.

Dr. Baker left on the C. & A. train at 6:28. He has only recently returned from Peru, where he was called on a smallpox investigation.

The following is taken from the Peru News-Herald and shows what the workings of the state board of health are when their services are sought.

"Dr. E. F. Baker, of Jacksonville, representing the state board of health, inspected the smallpox infected district in the eastern part of Peru yesterday and found more than twenty well developed cases of smallpox.

"Without doubt many cases are still hidden and only through the most thorough, and persistent investigation and search will be ascertained how many cases of the disease really exist.

"Dr. Baker, in the interest of the city, of the surrounding country, and the state at large, advised and insisted upon a determined and energetic effort to stamp out the disease at once. He met last night at the council chamber with the mayor and members of the city council, who assembled in response to a formal call. All the physicians of the city were present and a number of interested citizens were there to hear the advice and suggestions of Dr. Baker.

"The doctor is a fluent talker and it is evident all the time that he understands his business. He goes direct to the point and expresses his ideas in a clear, incisive way which cannot be misunderstood.

"He expressed surprise at the carelessness and neglect shown in allowing the disease to secure such a foothold here, and then went on to give suggestions and advice as to the measures necessary if the further spread was prevented.

"He expressed the opinion, however, that, from the lack of stringent measures during the past two weeks and consequent great exposure to the contagion, many more cases would develop within the next few weeks.

"His suggestions, stated briefly, were as follows: First and foremost of all measures in stamping out smallpox is vaccination. He advised that the authorities should encourage in every way possible, the vaccination of everybody, old and young, and distinctly stated that the board of health had practically unlimited power in the way of enforcing all measures deemed necessary for the protection of the community.

"He assumed as a matter of course that a strict quarantine of all infected houses should be enforced, and then emphasized the absolute and imperative necessity for thorough disinfection by fumigation of any house contaminated by smallpox, clothing, bedding, etc. Until this is done the disease germs are active, and may at any time cause a fresh outbreak of the disease.

"Dr. Baker spoke very pointedly of the criminal folly evinced in regarding and treating an outbreak of the smallpox carelessly because it appears in a light form, and gave several instances where it had been so treated, and where, suddenly and without warning, it assumed a virulent form and many deaths resulted.

"He urged the city authorities to give the health officer all needed assistance and support in enforcing measures necessary if the city is to be freed from this dreadful disease, and assumed that the health officer would do his full duty in this dangerous and critical state of affairs.

"The mayor and council were ready and willing to adopt the suggestions and advice of Dr. Baker, and the result will be found in the official proceedings published in another column in this paper.

"Dr. Baker is evidently a man of ability, and generously endowed with determination and energy. His talk last night was plain and direct to the point, but was at the same time kind and courteous.

"It may be well for the people to understand right now that unless the most strenuous and effective measures are taken at once to rid the community of the smallpox the next step will probably be to quarantine the whole town and stop all communication with people outside the city.

"The time for lax, careless and make believe methods has gone by and the state authorities will see that necessary work is done and done thoroughly."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for several years and no children blessed my home. The doctor said I had a complication of female troubles and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. He tried to cure me after experimenting for several months, my husband became disgusted, and one night when we noticed the testimonial of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, he went out and bought a bottle for me. I used your medicine for three and one-half months, improving steadily in health, and in twenty-two months a child came. I cannot fully express the joy and thankfulness that is in my heart. Our home is a different place now, as we have something to live for, and all the credit is due to Lydia E. #### NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief. What a fortunate provision of nature is that that deprives the mind of suffering for how poignant would be the grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by trailing hair and greenness have been a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles; Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. ## SEEING THE FAIR IN DETAIL

Tales of the Woods—Porcupines Still Throw Their Quills at Some Folks. Revelations From Wisconsin—A Story of a Great Victory on Lake Erie. Alaskan Fisheries and a Washington Plank.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE BY MARK BENNETT.)

Up in Wisconsin the porcupine is known as the "lost man's food." In Wisconsin's exhibit of forestry a case of these odd brethren of the woods look at the passing throng with that nonchalance affected by taxidermists. I thought it was an exploded notion that porcupines threw their quills, but A. L. Rowe, who represents Wisconsin here, tells me it is not. Only the other day, said Mr. Rowe, an imaginative visitor stopped with his companion in front of the porcupine, jabbed his finger into the companion's side to awaken him, pointed to the animal and said:

"See them porcupines? Them's the fellows that throws their quills. See them quills? They're sharp as fork tines, an' they throw 'em like darts. I had the gol blindest time 'bout five year ago you ever heard about. I was goin' along the road when all 'twon't some porcupines begins throwin' quills. Gee, but I must 'a looked like a ches'nut burr when I got away from 'um. They must 'a throw'd 'um ten feet for I wain't closter than that 't' any tree."

So the porcupine still throws his quills and lizards count the small boy's teeth if he holds his mouth open and lots of other strange things happen as of yore.

The law protects the Wisconsin porcupine, and he may not be killed except in time of stress to the forest traveler. The Indian relishes the porcupine's flesh, but the white man does not take it from choice. The deer, too, specimens of which adorn this exhibit, is another protected creature of Wisconsin woods. Only during the last twenty days of November may deer be killed legally, and no hunter may slay more than two. As an example for lawmakers in other states, I may mention that venison cannot be sold legally or shipped from the state except when accompanied by the person owning it.

The badger, the emblem of the state, has no law back of him, but he is wonderful—self reliant in a way to pay encounter. "He can dig like a steam shovel," said Mr. Rowe. "I went after one with a shovel one day, and he kept ahead of me, making a fresh burrow faster than I could dig."

The black bear still abounds in northern Wisconsin and knows no law except his natural fear of man. The state makes no fish exhibit, though few states can boast more opportunities for the fisherman.

Beautiful woods are here, from Wisconsin—"The best curly birch and maple we have ever seen," says Mr. Rowe. All sorts of fish and birds and little suggestions are here that make one want to build a house straightway to make use of them. Red oak and black ash stand for the hard woods of the state, and cork pine—the choicest of the white pines—supplies the finest of materials for doors and castings. Here, too, are beautiful burials, for panning and other fancy uses. The enemies of trees and examples of their destructive work are here in cases, a score or so, which prove that Wisconsin has her troubles, along with sister states, and which suggest that she will need better laws for the protection of all wild birds that live upon insects.

I stopped to examine some of the boats of modern build. Everything here is suggestive of life along stream and shore or in the dark, damp depths of forest recesses.

"Do you own a shotgun?" said a voice behind me. And such scenes, it is embarrassing to confess unfamiliarity with their fullest meaning and richest experiences.

"I am fond of boats," said I. "You see that boat there? Why, that's a tub! The bulge is in the wrong place. A boat runs best on its own foam. Makes me think of the time my brother and I cum it over a Englishman 'long the north shore o' Lake Erie. There was a sailin' race every year 'bout us, an' I sez to my brother, 'Bob, let's build a boat an' go in that race.' I was always great on boat models. It's a knack. So we cut our own logs an' took 'em to the mill an' had things made our own way. Besides our own work that sailboat cost us jus' $90."

"When the race came off we were on hand with plenty o' sail. The race was in three directions, three miles each time to a buoy and back, eighteen miles in all. This was where we met the Englishman. Well, you'd oughter seen that race. Our rough, homemade boat led off, and when we came in at the end of the third loop we were six miles ahead."

"After the race Mr. Englishman came over to see us. He looked the boat over and bimeby said he, 'Do you want to sell er?' 'Oh, I says, 'we ain't particular anxious about sellin'.' 'Brother Bob, was one of these anxious fellers an' got aroun' where he could whisper to me, all excited, 'Sell er!' I turned around an' took 'im by the arm an' led 'im to 'tother end o' the boat. 'Bob, I says, 'you jus' shet your mouth an' keep it shet; I know what I'm doin'.' Then I went back to the Englishman an' I says to 'im, 'I have jus' talked with my brother, an' we have decided that we will sell for $1,500.' 'Oh,' says the Englishman, 'taint worth it. Look how rough she is.' 'Yes,' said I, 'but she can go. All she needs is a little scrapin' and varnishin' to make er look pretty.' 'Can't you do better 'n fifteen hundred?' says he. 'No, that's bottom,' says I. 'Well, come along over to the bank,' says he. An' Bob an' me went home with fifteen hundred."

"Next year we built another boat, doubled it up as fine as a varnished fiddle and beat the boat we had built and sold to the Englishman the year before. We sold that boat for $8,000 to the same Englishman."

"This was the lesson I found at the displays of boats—that the success of a boat lies first in its model. The real art is in the model."

Here is Alaska, a vast expanse of canvas upon the south wall of the Foresty palace. A stream of real water comes out of somewhere at the left, gurgles and splashes over seeming rocks and flows off elsewhere behind some Alaskan cabins. Reality blends with the seeming, and you feel it pulling you that way to see it all. It is a pretentious display of the vast Alaskan salmon fisheries. You may here become familiar with a great industry, even to a sampling of the products, and learn a list of things about salmon that few of us can offhand claim to know. Here is a model of a salmon cannery, with tiny models of men handling the salmon from life to labeled package. The big fish of Puget sound are also here in tanks, but not in life, and you may know the salmon by such names as "humpback," "sockeye," the silver or coho salmon and the royal chinook. Another is the dog salmon, different from the dogfish of the shark family. The wolf fish is in another tank, and his ferocious looks well suggest his name. The state of Washington graphically illustrates with models and apparatus how she is fostering the salmon industry by propagating and planting salmon fry by the million.

As a part of the forestry exhibit of Washington there is one thing that seems to catch every eye—one of those biggest things that always attract—a spruce plank in one piece twelve feet eight inches wide. To saw such a plank was impossible in the old days of the log saw, run by an overshot waterwheel or in the later days of the big circle saw. This plank was made with one of the great band saws that are devouring the transitory forests. The huge plank bears a map of the great state from which it comes.

ARMY MANEUVER DETAILS.

Blues and Browns to Play War Game on Bull Run Battlefield.

The details of the autumn army maneuvers to take place over the Bull Run battlefield at Manassas were set the other day, says the New York Tribune.

In the first problem one army (to be known as the Blue army) has its base on the Potomac at Washington. It is proceeding westward against a Brown army, operating toward Washington from the Shenandoah valley. The leading corps of the Blues consists of two divisions, a real one being at Manassas and the other, an imaginary one, at Fairfax Court House. The imaginary division is supposed to be preparing to move forward from Alexandria. The Brown army is similarly divided, the real division being at Thoroughfare and the imaginary one supposed to be at Front Royal. The rest of the Browns are at Strasburg, prepared to advance.

This is the general situation of the opposing armies at the beginning of the maneuvers. The rest of the problem concerns itself with the attack by the Blues and the efforts of the Brown commander to make his dispositions with a view of holding his own against the actual divisions and re-enforcements.

The second series of maneuvers is the operation of the Blue army, assembled at Washington, against the Browns, operating from the Shenandoah. The Blue commander is to take up a defensive position to repel the attack of the Browns, who are assisted by heavy re-enforcements, which he knows are in their rear. The Browns are to attack without delay to prevent the union of the main body of the Blues before its re-enforcements arrive, trusting to the attack of its first (real) division to hold the Blue division until supported by the Brown re-enforcements. The problem for the Blues is to resist the Browns, knowing that the enemy's re-enforcements are rapidly approaching. This will prevent the Blues from making counter offensive flanking movements. The Brown commander must attack as soon as possible, knowing that his re-enforcements will arrive first, which gives him opportunity for more extensive offensive movements.

In the first maneuvers the railroad from Front Royal to Manassas is supposed to be demolished, and not available to the Browns. In the second set the railroad from the south is also supposed to be cut out of service. The umpire will suspend operations promptly at 3 p. m. each day, when the casualties will be computed and deducted from each side.

Gas Life Buoys For Boats.

Some of Chicago's passenger steamers are to be supplied with gas life buoys to rescue those who fall overboard at night, says the Chicago Tribune. The buoy, above which will burn a brilliant gas jet for a considerable time, is lighted as soon as it strikes the water. Extended tests of the buoys made by officials of the Goodrich line have proved satisfactory. Sailors and passengers falling from steamers in the nighttime, although in many cases able swimmers, have almost always perished through inability to find life preservers cast overboard for their use.

SHARKEY TO THE RESCUE.

Pugilist Carried Sick Actress to Street at Request of Priest.

Dr. Nagle of Bellevue hospital responded to an ambulance call to an apartment house in New York the other night. On the third floor he found Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, thirty-eight years old, a vaudeville actress, suffering from aneurism of the neck, says the New York Times. The Rev. Father William O'Reilly of St. Ann's church, 44 East Twelfth street, near Fourth avenue, was attending the woman when Dr. Nagle arrived. The surgeon advised her removal to the hospital. Mrs. Drew was practically helpless, and Dr. Nagle began to wonder how he would get her down to the ambulance. She weighs 160 pounds, and Dr. Nagle is a small man.

"Wait a minute," volunteered Father O'Reilly, "and I'll see if I can find you a strong man."

As he reached the street he met Tom Sharkey, the sailor pugilist, and Mrs. Sharkey. Father O'Reilly knows the fighter well.

"Hello, Tom," called out the priest. "You're just the man I want. Will you help carry a sick woman to the ambulance?"

"Sure, father," said Sharkey. "I'm right on the job."

Sharkey mounted the stairs behind the priest, and when he reached the sickroom he looked at Dr. Nagle.

"Father O'Reilly tells me you want a lift, dog," said the pugilist, his chest swelling out.

Nagle looked at Sharkey and sized him up.

"Guess you might as well do the whole job," he said.

Sharkey stepped over, picked up Mrs. Drew as if she were a baby and slowly walked down the stairs.

"Don't be afraid. I'll go just as slow as you like. I could carry you a thousand miles," Sharkey kept repeating as he descended.

Reaching the sidewalk Sharkey found his way to the ambulance blocked by a crowd of men. Two policemen stood near, but they made little impression on the crowd.

"Gents, will yer please get a move on?" said Sharkey in an ordinary voice. The way was quickly cleared, and the pugilist placed Mrs. Drew tenderly in the bus.

"Thanks, Tom," said Father O'Reilly. "Don't mention it, father," replied Sharkey as he again offered his arm to Mrs. Sharkey.

MAN'S ASHES FOR A BEAUTY

Grim Method of Demonstrating Undying Affection.

Miss Christine Prince, an actress, was the unsuspecting victim of a dead man's grim remembrance, says a Los Angeles (Cal.) dispatch. She received by express a silver case of oblong shape containing human ashes, those of Robert Conklin, who in life had been desperately in love with her, and they were sent by his attorney.

Conklin came into Miss Prince's career when she was a young girl, having joined her father as a prospector in Colorado more than ten years ago.

He fell in love, proposed marriage, was rejected and drifted away into the foothills of the Rockies. He came back later to be again rejected. He then went to live near Denver, but kept up a correspondence until a few months ago, when he was taken ill. In June Miss Prince heard of his death.

She heard no more about him until she received the box. Conklin left $35,000 to his mother in Massachusetts.

WHITE HOUSE INNOVATION.

Plates Told Under Whose Administration Furniture Was Bought.

Hereafter those who desire souvenirs from the White House will need to examine a little care before carrying away furniture from the home of the president, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York World. Every piece of furniture has been marked with a brass plate bearing the name of the president who was in the White House when the article was bought. The scheme is the product of the brain of Colonel Bromwell, the young officer of engineers who has recently become superintendent of public buildings and grounds.

The most recent purchases of furniture for the home of the president consisted of 150 gold framed chairs. All these have been tagged. They are to be used when muscled or other entertainments are given at the White House. This brings the number of gold framed chairs up to 250.

Automobiles With Beds.

American millionaires who strive to outdo their neighbors have ignored the new European device of automobiles with beds, says the New York Press. Several Parisians own these flying hotels, which cannot be excelled for purposes of continental touring. It is not absolutely necessary to use the beds for a continuous night's rest, but for a nap they fill the bill. So far none of these machines has been imported to America, although many Americans go abroad to pick out the newest departure in motor cars. The Baron Teopold de Rothschild, who owns about ten large automobiles, has ordered one of these comfortable autos. The beds are built in the tonneau and there are spaces on either side for packing clothing and carrying provisions. These motors with beds, however, are too heavy for anything except hard touring. They are the last triumph of luxury, and it is only a question of time before they will be used generally.

Japanese Steaks.

The Japs have captured Yungkow. They must have been playing for high stakes, says the Omaha World-Herald. Almost any old cow is a good catch at the present price of beef.

Soap Bubbles.

Few things amuse children more than blowing soap bubbles, and quite a little party can be kept happy and amused on a fine afternoon by being allowed to enjoy this game. It is a good thing to prepare the latter beforehand. Cut up very finely or grate a three inch square of white castile soap, put it into a large bottle with a quart of warm soft water and shake several times a day for three days. Pour off the clear solution, strain it through a piece of muslin, then measure and add to it half the quantity of pure glycerin and mix well. Put this mixture into a clean bottle, cork it well, and it will keep good a long time. The bubbles made with this will be iridescent, last several hours and can be blown to a large size. A little competition can be arranged and trifling prizes given for the largest or the prettiest bubble or the largest number blown from one dip.

William Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader (Iowa) Argus.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Wheat—Good trade and unsettled market, start being easy, followed by sharp rally, closing being higher than Saturday.

Barley—Higher than Saturday. Eastern cables and barish foreign statistics were early factors and local traders were among the principal sellers. Later sentiment changed and buyers became more general. Crop reports were bullish. Shorts covered freely and the situation became decidedly firm. The visible increase was 35,000, against 45,000 increase a year ago.

Corn—Active and stronger. There was a large trade, with local selling at the start on heavy receipts, cables, larger world's shipments and increase on passage, but offerings were well taken, the commission house demand being good, and prices advanced sharply. Floor traders being short. Cloudbursts in Iowa and cool weather generally were bull helps. The close showed gains of 1/4 cent.

Oats—Generally traded in, prices yielded 3/4 cent under Saturday's close at the start, but advanced 1/2 cent. May led, only to react, and closed steady and 1/4 cent higher. Strength was due to sympathy with wheat. Elevator interests were best sellers. Statistics were bearish. The visible increase was 220,000.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

What She Needed to Play the Piano Properly.

It was exceptionally warm, and the group of girls in the reception room of the college settlement were restless and tired of the classical music which their entertainer had been playing for their pleasure. She realized this, but was unable to improve matters, for she could not play the popular music which some of the girls wanted.

Apologizing for her ignorance of "I Want You, My Honey; Yes, I Do," "Goo-goo Byes" and other favorites, she finally said:

"Can't some of you girls play?"

All seemed to agree that "Becky" was a fine performer, though Becky protested that she couldn't play "good enough." This idea her champions hoisted, crediting her reluctance to natural modesty.

"Why, she's got a gold medal at home that her teacher gave her for her fine playing," said one of her friends.

This proved a convincing argument, and Becky allowed herself to be led to the long suffering piano.

With the exception of an occasional false note the first few bars went very nicely, and the admiring audience beamed with delight. Then things began to go wrong. There were wonderful discords and frequent stops.

"I've forgotten it. I don't know the rest," said the embarrassed Becky.

"Try again. It will come back," suggested the settlement girl. And the friends offered their encouraging advice. So she began again, but broke down at the same place. This time a deluge of tears accompanied the failure, and Becky was not to be consoled.

"If I only had my gold medal with me, I know I could play it right through!" she sobbed.

The Outcome.

"Your coffee, sir"

"All right, William. Just come in and—"

"Put it on the table. I'll drink it in a minute or two. I want to read this."

"Ouch! Help, help! I'm scalded!"

COSTS NOTHING UNLESS CURED.

A Fair Offer Made by Hatch to All Sufferers From Catarrh.

Hatch is selling Hyomei on a plan that has caused considerable talk amongst his customers.

The plan is different from that followed by other remedies, but the remedy itself is different also. This treatment for the cure of catarrh has such an unusual record of cures to its credit that Hatch offers to refund the money if it does not give the desired benefit. This is certainly one of the fairest offers that can be made and any one who has catarrh and does not take advantage of it is doing himself or herself an injustice.

Extra bottles of Hyomei can be procured for use with the inhaler at 50 cents.

Do not suffer any longer with tickling, smarting, burning, eye-watering troubles that afflict those who have catarrh. Hyomei will cure you, but if you should not find it adapted to your case, Hatch will return your money.

A Clever Fish.

In the Indian ocean and southern Pacific there is a fish known as the archer, and how do you suppose it captures its food?

It lives principally on insects, which of course do not live in the water. So it waits patiently until it sees a dragon fly or some other morsel appetizing to its fishy palate flying near the surface of the water or resting on some of the aquatic plants. Then this wonderful archer fish thrusts its head out of the water and shoots a stream of water two or three feet up in the air to strike the insect. It rarely misses its aim, and the force of the sudden spurt of water is sufficient to startle the insect and drench its wings so that it falls, the fish catches it in its mouth, and that is the abrupt end of some little creature.

In This Golden Rule?

Joseph and Edith were neighbors and played together most amiably. One day, however, a difference arose, and Edith's mother, looking from the window, determined to let the youngsters settle it according to their own standards. Finally argument gave place to attack, and when Edith stalked toward Joseph with fire in her eye and a rake in her hand her mother decided to interfere. As she reached the spot she heard Edith quote in most decided accents "Do unto others as they would like to do to you," bringing the rake down dangerously near to Joseph's forehead.

A Soldier's Stratagem.

An amusing story is told of a soldier, a Virginian by birth, when he was going on a marauding expedition he used to story at a friendly blacksmith's to have his horse's shoes reversed. By this means his enemies, seeing the track of the horse's hoofs going in a certain direction, would pursue him that way, whereas the sly old soldier and his horse would in reality be safely out of danger by an exactly opposite direction.

DEATH RECORD

KEEMER.

Miss Elsie M. Keemer died at Our Savior's hospital Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, of peritonitis, after an illness of several weeks. She was born in Morgan county, Aug. 20, 1870, dying on the anniversary of her birth.

She is survived by her father and mother, one sister, Odessa, of Pueblo, Colo., and three brothers, John, of Scott county; Harry, of Bartonville, and Edward, of Nortonville, where her parents reside.

She is the granddaughter of the venerable Elias Keemer, for whom she had made a home for nearly four years, coming from her own home during the illness of her grandmother, to whom she devoted months of careful watching and careful nursing.

Her devotion to her aged grandfather, whom she nursed through several severe attacks of illness, won for her the esteem and affection of all who knew her and the friends who can bear testimony to her kind acts are numberless.

She united with the Christian church at Lynnville, Dec. 20, 1890, during the ministry of Rev. Mr. Bowen.

The cheerfulness and bravery with which she bore the most intense suffering made her death an unexpected blow to her friends, and the sudden ending of this young life, so full of promise for the future, leaves countless saddened hearts and a void never to be filled.

The funeral services will be held at the family residence, 333 South Main street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FROM CELLAR TO GARRET.

A little soap mixed with stove blacking will produce better and more lasting luster than without.

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine grease. To remove pencil stains soak fabric in spirits of camphor before wetting.

The smart woman saves time and patience by keeping a shot horn with the children's rubbersto make their donning easy.

If stovepipes are well rubbed with lard and tied in several thicknesses of newspapers they can be safely stored without fear of rust.

Alum, the size of a hickory nut, dissolved in a pint of starch, will brighten the colors of muslins, ginghams and calicoes after washing.

Grass stains on linen should be oaked for a few moments in kerosene and then washed in very hot water with a generous supply of soap.

If non-rust hair pins are used to fasten them down, curtains can be as nicely dried on a good thick grass plot as in regular stretchers.

The fastidious girl secures a number of wide pasteboard ribbon rolls from the dry goods store and keeps her neck and belt ribbons smoothly rolled over them.

After the table silver has been polished, if laid away, it will keep bright for a year in a paper box well covered with flour that has been thoroughly dried.

Blood stains on a silk gown can be removed by cold strong borax water. A faded cotton dress can be made white by boiling in cream of tartar water.

Several thicknesses of newspapers laid between the bed springs and mattress are equal in warmth to another mattress. Laid between the blanket and quilt they equal extra blanket.

Clean enameled shoes with sweet milk after all dust and dirt have been removed, allowing the milk to remain on for a minute then wiping with a soft, dry cloth.

Medicine can easily be administered to a cat by mixing it with lard and rubbing it on the forelegs near the shoulder where it can be licked but not rolled off.
